MAUD WAGNER

TATTOO STUDIO CIRCUS,
NYBROGATAN 42
STOCKHOLM

As an apprentice of her husband, Wagner learned how to give traditional "hockey-pokey" tattoos—despite the invention of the tattoo machine—and became a tattooist herself. Together, the Wagners were two of the last tattoo artists to work by hand, without the aid of modern tattoo machines. Maud Wagner was the United States' first known female tattoo artist.
